

Congratulations to Jeff Green on Receiving Leadership Award

PROXUS Principal Jeff Green is a recipient of the Philadelphia Business Journal's 2009 Inaugural Minority Business Leaders Award Program. The award recognizes top level corporate executives and advocates of ethnic backgrounds. Thirty minority business leaders including Jeff will be honored on Thursday, September 24th from 7:30 p.m. - 9:30 p.m. at the Loew's Philadelphia Hotel at 12th & Market Streets.

Jeff, a true leader in the area of human resource management, has applied his skills and expertise in multiple business environments throughout the Mid-Atlantic region, including Thomas Jefferson University Health System and Fleet Credit Card Services. He has enabled new businesses to establish a sound human resources foundation on which to build their organizations. In addition, he has facilitated the introduction of advanced processes and interactions to enhance the leadership of for profit and not-for-profit firms.

He was also the President and Founder of the Competitive Edge Group, a human resource consulting organization. In 1999, Jeff joined Granatt HR, a human resource management and consulting company where he served as Vice President of Business Development and a Partner in the company.

At PROXUS, Jeff has helped grow the company from a few hundred thousand dollars to nearly $3 million in annual revenue. From hands on project management, sales and marketing, and business development, to determining the strategic growth of the company, Jeff has been integral in every aspect of the business.

"Jeff demonstrates integrity and commitment in every aspect of this life," said PROXUS Partner Greg Gast. "He is an excellent businessperson whose dedicated efforts have been instrumental in enabling PROXUS to not merely survive, but to thrive during the turbulent business environment of the past 10 years."

- more -

He received his MBA in General and strategic Management from Temple University. Jeff also holds a BBA degree from Temple University, where he dual majored in Finance and Risk Management and Insurance.

Jeff presents workshops at the PEBA (Penjerdel Employee Benefits and Compensation Association) Annual Conference, the Relevante Annual Symposium, the Fort Washington Business Alliance, and at multiple management meetings and retreats. He will present at the national convention of the Institute for Management Consultants this fall.

Jeff's unique contributions extend far beyond the business world. He is a current board member of Friends Life Care, a nonprofit organization that provides in-home health care, related personal-care services, and facility care to members. He is a former board member of the Maternity Care Coalition, a Philadelphia non-profit whose mission is to improve maternal and child health and well being through the collaborative efforts of individuals, families, providers and communities. Earlier in his career, he was recognized by the Philadelphia chapter of the National Multiple Sclerosis Society with their Business Leadership Award.

Join PROXUS in congratulating Jeff on this achievement, and to contact Jeff about your specific company needs, call him at 215-654-9140 ext. 102 or at jgreen@proxushr.com.

#

August 19, 2009